

BLACKFRIARS

RESTAURANT & BANQUET HALL

INTRO

Blackfriars does a lot more than simply taking care to create a great drinks menu from local produce. Our dedicated team needs little encouragement to embrace the ethos of seasonality and sustainability, from foraging in our local countryside to growing edible herbs and flowers within the walls of our Cloister Garden. And it's a real team effort with chefs and waiting staff involved, all led by our intrepid in-house forager-come wine sommelier, Daren, who can often be found rummaging through the hedgerows, daughter in hand.

We also brew our own beer; St. Dominic's Brewery. This sits within the friary's former Chapter House, which then became the meeting house for the Brewers Guild. Ben Hall, our head brewer, is now crafting heritage-driven, traditional yet modern beers. Ben grew-up in both Normandy and Belgium where he nurtured a real love for, and understanding of, traditional continental beers.

The same ethos applies to our food. We source flour and game from North Yorkshire; cheese, rapeseed oil, honey, organic milk and venison from Northumberland; and fish from North Shields. Spent brewing yeast is used to make our breads, whilst grain is used for baked produce. What's important is we harvest seasonally, forage in the wilds of our beautiful countryside, preserve our bounty, and utilise ancient techniques of drying, fermenting, and pickling.

ST. DOMINIC'S BREWERY

Blackfriars is now home to its own craft brewery, St Dominic's, launched in 2024, which will be pouring its core range of modern-traditional brews including an IPA, Pale Ale, Pilsner and Blonde. Brewing ale would have been a daily occupation for the medieval friars - as common as breadmaking. After the Dissolution when the Friary was abandoned, the Brewers & Bakers Guild used the Chapter House for their quarterly meetings. It seems appropriate to the story of Blackfriars we continue the narrative and brew our own ale as we now bake our daily bread. The brewery is situated in the Chapter House, a site rich with history.
