

INTRO

Blackfriars does a lot more than simply taking care to create a great drinks menu from local produce. Our dedicated team needs little encouragement to embrace the ethos of seasonality and sustainability, from foraging in our local countryside to growing edible herbs and flowers within the walls of our Cloister Garden. And it's a real team effort with chefs and waiting staff involved, all led by our intrepid in-house forager-come wine sommelier, Daren, who can often be found rummaging through the hedgerows, daughter in hand.

We also brew our own beer; St. Dominic's Brewery which sits within the friary's former Chapter House which became the meeting house for the Brewers Guild. Ben Hall, our head brewer is now crafting heritage-driven traditional yet modern beers. Ben grew-up in both Normandy and Belgium where he nurtured a real love for and understanding of traditional continental beers.

The same ethos applies to our food, sourcing flour and game from North Yorkshire, cheese, rapeseed oil, honey, organic milk and venison from Northumberland, and fish from North Shields. Spent brewing yeast is used to make our breads whilst grain is used for baked produce. What's important is we harvest seasonally, forage in the wilds of our beautiful countryside, preserve our bounty, and utilise ancient techniques of drying, fermenting, and pickling.
